!!TAKS!!

test! test! test! thats all we ever think about! thats all we ever do. im tired of tests there so uhh! to think that for the rest of our lifes were gana take tests.

test on every thing to see if we will pass on two the next gread, and two see if we are qualified for the job.

But with out this horrible things we would be nothing. just a bunch of objects takeing space. We would be dumb cause there ~~would~~ be nothing too study for nothing to learn. there a pain too take, a pain too study for but they are all worth it.

The thing i hate the most is that there are so many to take. from math, too science, to reading and history. there are so many thing a learn. and its so hard. I get really nervous when im days away

From the test. I can never sleep the day before the test.

My friend all call me the morning of the test. they ask me were u able too sleep? they are allways nervous and scared. But the bad thing is that they are so long and very hard. Besides the time limit is ridicyles. we can't even turn it in when were done. they always tell us look it over again and again.

Thats why i dislike and like the task.
