Chairman, Texas Senate Redistricting Committee, Select P.O. Box 12068 Capitol Station Austin, TX 78711

Thank you for all of your hard work & God bless you!

The above linked letter of testimony reads:

Please accept this letter, with the bullet point positions below, along with sharing it with other members of the Texas Senate Redistricting Committee as recorded testimony.

1) Drawing Texas districts should not be performed by persons not elected by Texas voters.

Only representatives that Texans elected should be performing this task to ensure a degree of accountability for the lines drawn.

2) Texas will gain three new Congressional seats. When drawing these new districts, the voting pattern throughout Texas should be considered. All state-wide offices are held by Republican leaders. All new maps should reflect these voting patterns and the majority of Texans.

3) All communities of interest should remain together when possible. These communities not only represent race, and socioeconomic interests, but also communities with similar water interests, transportation routes, as well as concerns regarding farming, industry, and education.

4) Our legislators should take future suburban growth into consideration when drawing the maps to avoid the disproportionate representation that we experience at the end of the ten- year cycle. For example, the House districts in suburban DFW and Harris County are overpopulated now. Thus, where discretion on population is allowed, such as Senate and State House Districts, these urban and suburban districts should be underpopulated in proportion to the median population to account for increased growth expected during the decade.

5) The Texas Constitution's "Whole County Rule" minimizes splitting of House districts across counties and minimizes the splitting of counties between different districts. In general, we agree with this rule, but also recognize there can be communities of interest across county lines. For example, many people live in one county and travel to another each day for work.

This is especially true along major traffic routes and thus, these people share interests.

Your hard work and dedication to this difficult task is very much appreciated along with the transparency your committee provides. Please let us know if there is anything else we may do to help with this process in the future!
