Message:

I vehemently oppose mid-decade redistricting because its only purpose is to prevent people of color from having a voice in the selection of their representatives. In fact, this “redistricting/gerrymandering” will result in legislators deciding who they will represent. At this point in time, redistricting undermines stability, disrupts representation, and politicizes a process that should occur once per decade, following the census. What is the reason for doing this right now? Is it because Trump is looking for 11,780 votes again?
