Message:

As a resident of Harris County, I'm demanding a redistricting process that reflects the real demographics of our community — not one designed to suppress our voices.

Harris County is one of the most diverse and populated areas in Texas. Yet time and time again, we've seen gerrymandered maps used to silence communities of color and maintain partisan control. This is not democracy. It is manipulation.

I am calling for transparency, equity, and accountability in how these maps are drawn. The people of Harris County, and all of Texas, deserve fair representation — not maps that protect incumbents and punish voters for showing up.

The world is watching. We are watching. And we will not be silent while our votes are sliced up and scattered to serve political agendas.

Draw fair maps. Represent the people. Not the politicians.
