Message:

This redistricting attempt is an illegal attempt to force more republican districts because the current administration/the GOP is scared of seats flipping in the midterms. It goes against the Voting Rights Act and this isn't even the right year to be redrawing the districts anyway! It's a preposterous abuse of power and just another example of how Texas government has gone completely off the rails. If your party cannot win elections, the solution should be talking to your constituents about what they want so you can push policy that actually benefits the people, not the billionaires. Taking bribes to stay in power while giving the people you represent the scraps? You deserve to lose. God calls on us to love our neighbors as ourselves. You can't even respect the neighbors that you are supposed to be fighting for enough to even pretend to win them over, so you've decided to cheat instead? Is this what Texas is about now? This is a state whose government is trying to rule on Judeo-Christian values? I never knew Jesus as a liar or a cheat.
