Dear Politicians,

Why are we so afraid of the truth? "The truth hurts" - is that so? How many of you would not be in your current position if the truth was in control. Do you walk around with confidence in your step knowing that you only achieved this seat through lies? Does your heart feel content when you're seated in Church every Sunday, knowing your power comes from subverting the truth?

Anyway, to redistrict Texas at this time is illegal, especially the way in which you plan to do it. This you know. With every fiber of my being, I highly recommend against this gerrymandering of our Lone Star State. For, I am not alone in seeing your crimes and the people on Texas are waking up and watching the choices that you all make. More and more eyes are on your actions everyday.

Everyone in Texas deserves to be equally and fairly represented, or else they are being taxed without representation. That is not something that Americans have historically taken sitting down. Abandon this morally sinking ship and leave the district lines alone. Then, in five years when a new census is published, use that information to make it better for all. (If you're still in office).

Consider doing the right thing for all Texans, not just the constituents you choose. All Texans deserve equality. All Texans deserve justice. All Texans deserve peace. All Texans deserve accurate representation. All Texans are watching. The eyes of Texas are upon you, and they won't turn their heads away this time.

Sincerely,
Amy Boa
