Message:

I totally disagree with the notion of redistricting Texas at this juncture. We are in the middle of a census cycle, not when we typically do it, at the end/beginning of that cycle. Additionally, 2 additional districts would probably fly under the radar, but 5 is blatantly partisan and politicizes this process. Blue states, such as California, might respond with their own redistricting map, wiping out any gain made in Texas. I think it's a bad move, and I don't like the autocratic, partisan vibes it's sending. The public is NOT with Republicans on this.
