Message:

I live in Houston, Texas, and my congressperson lives in a small town over 100 miles away. When I join town halls with him or write to him about my concerns, he does not mention issues affecting my city. He focuses instead on rural farmers, ranchers and small town life. He does not even have an office in Houston. Because of this gerrymandering I do not have a representative who can speak to the issues in my local community. I feel disconnected from my fellow Houstonians, and I do not have adequate representation in Congress. I need my area to be represented by a person from this area. Give the rural east texans larger access to this rep who understands them so well, and reconnect our community to the city we love.
