Message:

Redistricting is not a good move redistricting will violate the Voting Rights Act and people would not have equal representation. The people has an equal voice or influence and decision making process regardless of their population size or other factors. Elected officials should earn the support of voters they hope to represent and not to have one particular party. The Republicans want a country where politicians choose their voters and not the other way wrong. The reason for the special session in Texas midterm election is to rig the state's congressional map to pick up more GOP seats to keep them in power. The people have a voice to choose who they want to represent them our voice matters and count our voices should not be silence.
