Every morning, I get up and pray for real leadership in our country and state. Leadership that adheres to the constitution. Leadership that follows the basic premise that the Founding Fathers of our nation called for during the Revolution, and within the Constitution itself.

That we are represented By the People.

That our representatives in local, state, and national offices represent their constituents in a fair and honorable manner.

So far, my prayers remain unanswered.

Regardless of party affiliation, I believe it is important to the right and moral thing when holding office. And right now, I don't see that kind of morality happening at the state and national levels.

How is it that the GOP has allowed our democracy to be put on a life support system? Why? What kind of power are we ceding our constitutional moral obligations to?

Frankly, without a quorum, you should not redraw the congressional map. Nor should you do something merely because one man wants to hold onto power more than you want to do the right thing.

I am deeply concerned that this is the continuation of a long, slow slide into the complete loss of our country's democratic principles and hard-fought-for freedom.

I am fairly certain my comments won't sway you, but maybe, I hope they will. Please consider what Benjamin Franklin said when asked about the new government formed by the Founding Fathers. This quote reportedly comes from a conversation with Elizabeth Willing Powel after the Constitutional Convention in 1787.

When asked what kind of government the delegates had created, Franklin replied with this cautionary statement, highlighting that maintaining a republic requires vigilance and active participation from the citizens.

"A republic, if you can keep it."

I hope you do the right thing and stand up for our democracy and wait until you are supposed to redraw the congressional map until 2030.
