Message:

As a concerned Texan, I strongly oppose any redistricting plans that weaken the voices of marginalized communities, divide cohesive neighborhoods, or are clearly designed to benefit one political party over another. Redistricting should serve the people...not political interests.

Texas is one of the most diverse states in the nation. Our voting maps must reflect that diversity by protecting the representation of Black, Latino, Asian, Indigenous, and other historically underrepresented communities. Gerrymandering undermines the core values of our democracy and erodes trust in the political process.

I urge this body to commit to a transparent, community-led redistricting process that ensures every vote counts equally. Texans deserve districts that are drawn fairly by the people, for the people.

Do not let redistricting become a tool of suppression. Let it be a statement of your commitment to democracy and equal representation.
