Message:

Redrawing Texas's congressional districts mid-decade—outside of the normal redistricting cycle—is a dangerous and undemocratic move. This plan is a clear partisan power grab aimed at diluting the voices of Black, Latino, and Democratic voters, especially in urban and border regions. It undermines fair representation, violates the Voting Rights Act, and opens the door to racial gerrymandering by breaking up minority coalition districts. If allowed, it sets a troubling national precedent where parties can redraw maps at will to rig elections in their favor, weakening our democracy and silencing millions of voters.
