Message:

I thought that Texas could be its own republic if it wanted to. But seems that Texan patriotism that we all Texans are proud of is nothing but smokes and mirrors. Im saddened that instead of focusing on the devastation in hill country and all the lost lives and the ones still missing we're focusing on the president and what he wants. The president has left us high and dry and doesn't care about Texas he just cares about the power that Texas could give him and you all are falling in line like sheep. I considere my self an independent because I believe we can find common ground in working bipartisan. By silencing those voices you will be taking away by redistricting as the president asked. What happen to Texans having each other backs what happened to Texas being its own state. We're basically handing it to trump and all our voices can't be heard abbot and this senate only care about themselves. Not only that this state has been under republican control for more than 30 years and everything that currently happening is happening under your watch. What happened to integrity and the rule of law? This is not the Texas I know. Please don't allow this to happen people of Texas has faint in the fact that you will do the right thing. Listening to a man that isn't in the tranches with Texans doesn't need to tell us how to live. Please reconsider and help the people in hill country go out there and show that you care about Texans. Not some errand boys doing exactly as their told.
