No to gerrymander!!

I'm truly fed up and deeply worried about the state of democracy here in Texas. It feels like we're losing our core values of independence and fair representation, especially when it comes to the voices of minority voters. My frustration with gerrymandering is through the roof, and I'm demanding a voting system that actually reflects what the people want, not one that's just manipulated for political gain. It just doesn't sit right with me, especially for a state like Texas, known for its independent spirit – we should be championing a truly fair and transparent electoral process.

You see, I absolutely believe that gerrymandering is a critical threat to a fair voting system. When electoral districts are deliberately drawn to favor one party or to dilute the power of certain groups, it totally undermines that basic principle of "one person, one vote." This practice can effectively silence minority voices and make it incredibly difficult for underrepresented communities to elect candidates who genuinely represent their interests and values.

so vote no!! to the Congressional Redistricting do not allow this !!
