Message:

I would like to be explained in detail why the Texas government feels the need to update it's districts only upon having been request by the Republican party leader.

Having lived in Harris County my entire life, I have time and time again felt like the votes of significantly smaller areas of our State out weight that of one of the largest cities in the United States. The idea of redistricting for the sake of granting the republican party more ground blatantly appears to be gerrymandering.
