Message:

My name is Josée Holland - I am a native Texan and am staunchly opposed to HB 4. Our congressional maps are fine. They've been fine. The only reason they're suddenly not fine is because the President has decided they aren't, not because of how they impact Texans but because of how they impact his political agenda. Last I checked Texas was an independent state and not a puppet of the federal government. By even entertaining a motion to redraw congressional maps mid-decade the legislature is sending a message to Texans - they care more about DC than they do about us. I do not support you wasting my tax dollars redrawing distract maps because someone in DC said so. You should be focused on helping flood-stricken areas of our state, not this sham. You should be ashamed of yourselves.
