Message:

I thought people were for small government and eschewing government overreach. This is an example of both ant not for the benefit of the people of Houston in particular and America specifically. I am sure that both the founding fathers of Texas and America did not want to have lawmakers set up districts and draw them in a manner that takes the decision makers out of their home districts and put it into the lands of others who do not have the best interests of the constituents in mind. Especially when there are interest who have more money that want to control outcomes in Washington and silence the people. This would be classic voter suppression.
