Message:

As a Texas resident and voter, I strongly oppose any attempts at partisan redistricting that seek to entrench political power at the expense of fair representation. Redistricting should reflect the true diversity of Texas, not be used as a tool for gerrymandering that dilutes the voices of communities of color, urban areas, or politically diverse regions.

I urge the committee to prioritize transparency, public input, and nonpartisan fairness in the redistricting process. Congressional maps must be drawn to ensure competitive elections and equitable representation—not to favor one political party over another. Democracy works best when every vote counts equally.

Texans deserve maps that reflect people, not politics.
