Message:

I think Texas maps should be redrawn so that the % of the presidential popular vote is applied to the number of representatives from each party. Since republicans took 56% of the vote in 2024, there should 56% times 38 seats = 22 republican leaning districts and 16 democratic leaning districts. In other words, there should be “FEWER” republican leaning districts than there are now. Thank you for your attention to this matter!
