Message:

Redistricting for the purpose of diluting votes of communities of color is illegal. Redistricting for the purpose of concentrating political viewpoints is immoral and antithetical to the concept of elected governance. How can you make good decisions that benefit your state if you insist on only hearing your own opinion? The purpose of having a representative government elected by the people is so that decision makers have the benefit of hearing other people's perspectives. If you rig the system to produce a particular result, you will continue to lose relevance. Don't be afraid of listening to the people. That is the only way we will grow and prosper as a whole.
