Message:

The redistricting plan currently being considered by Republicans in the Texas Legislature is a blatant attempt to entrench partisan power at the expense of fair representation. By manipulating district boundaries to dilute the voting strength of urban, minority, and Democratic-leaning communities, the plan undermines the fundamental democratic principle that voters should choose their representatives—not the other way around. This kind of gerrymandering distorts the will of the people, weakens accountability, and erodes public trust in our electoral system. All Texans deserve a fair and competitive political process, not one rigged to favor a single party's hold on power.
