Message:
Dear Texas Senators:

The Proposed Congressional Redistricting is doing nothing to advance public interest or to better serve the constituents of Texas. Worse yet, you are eroding public trust in this government body by explicitly stating that the sole purpose for redrawing the state's congressional map is to bow to President Trump's demand to advantage Republican candidates. Members of the Senate have publicly voiced their intent to set aside a legal justification offered by the U.S. Department of Justice and have made their political motivations explicit for the first time.

This is incredibly unseemly, stinks of racism, and is stealing the voice of the people. Have you no scruples? Blatant self-interest may advance your career in the short term, but the chickens will come home to roost.

Rethink this mistake.

Sincerely,

Matt McGinnis
