Message:

"As a proud and concerned Texan, I'm urging you to prioritize real relief and disaster preparedness, not political games. Texas communities are resilient because we've had to be. Time and again, it's the people who step up to fill the gaps left by government inaction.

The special session should focus solely on relief and recovery for flood victims and ensuring our state is better prepared for the next crisis—whether it's a flood, wildfire, hurricane, or winter storm. That means passing real solutions like emergency alert system upgrades, county disaster grant programs, and stronger, more resilient infrastructure.

Texans are still missing, grieving, and rebuilding. Redirecting focus to rushing through new congressional maps, attacking trans Texans, or restricting abortion access is not only out of touch, it's dangerous. We need leadership that meets the moment, not more political distractions.

Please do what's right and put Texans first."

Thank you
