Message:

Texans are tired of watching our elected officials spend time and taxpayer money on political games like redistricting instead of addressing the real problems facing our state. We see what's happening—redistricting is nothing more than a power grab to protect incumbents and silence voters who might disagree with them.

This process tears apart communities, dilutes representation, and sends a clear message that politicians' careers matter more than the people they serve. It's insulting, and it's one more reason so many citizens have lost trust in government.

If you truly care about democracy, transparency, and public service, you will drop any redistricting efforts immediately and focus on governing—not gerrymandering.

Texans deserve fair representation, not political manipulation.
