Greetings,

I'm a proud and native Houstonian/Texan. I'm writing simply to express my concerns regarding the redistricting in Texas.

I have always prided myself in being a native Texan - we are hardworking people of principle. I firmly believe in fairness, equity, and free will. I strive to live by those tenets and am a huge proponent of 'do unto others as you wish done unto you.'

To that end, I find it difficult to reconcile the need and impetus behind the current proposed redistricting. It is being proposed out of sync with its regular schedule (once per decade), and by forces outside of Texas. This, in turn, gives it the specter of suspicion.

I am asking that our congressional leaders consider such issues as they go about conducting their civic duty - upholding their oath and the rule of law, representing their constituents, and allowing for fair, impartial, and transparent governmental and voting activity.

Thank you.
