Message:

Aside comment first, Texas does not need one or more "special sessions" after every "regular sessions." Save taxpayer funds and do those tasks in the regular sessions.

We do not need redistricting between that required due to updating because of updated census counts.

Your job as representatives of the citizens of Texas is to do what is in the best interest of those that elected you. I do not believe that your job is to try to enhance the political power of one party. Remember that another party could take power in Texas and try to redistrict for their benefit.

If redistricting is so important let the people vote for one of multiple submissions.

In summary leave the districts as they are until after the 2030 census is realized and stop with the "special sessions".
