

[REDACTED]

---

Date: 2025-08-05
First Name: Sandra
Last Name: Gavrilla
Title: n/a
Organization: self
Address: [REDACTED]
City: Coppell
State: Texas
Zipcode: [REDACTED]
Phone: [REDACTED]

Affirm public info: I agree

Regarding: Congressional

Message:

This rush to redraw Texas congressional maps is anti-democratic and calculated to bow down to Donald Trump because he's so worried that Republicans won't win enough seats next year to maintain control of the government. He instead should be looking at how his decisions are impacting so many of the people in the US that are really scratching just to get by. And now he asks for Texas to "fix" this situation and Texas Republicans are just falling in line without even thinking about pushing back.

Texas is a very diverse state, however, this power grab just silences anyone that disagrees. The process itself has been corrupt - with little transparency, public input or fair representation of any kind.

I used to be in a competitive district where my vote made a difference. Since the 2021 redistricting, I've felt that my vote no longer matters, and with this redrawing it will matter even less.

I was born and raised in Texas and I used to be proud to call myself a Texan. Not any more.

[REDACTED]