Message:

I am writing to strongly oppose the current redistricting maps being pushed through the Texas Senate. These maps do not reflect the true demographics or voices of our state. Instead, they are designed to dilute the voting power of communities of color and entrench partisan control, undermining the core principle of fair representation.

Texans deserve competitive, community-based districts drawn by an independent and transparent process—not maps engineered behind closed doors to predetermine election outcomes. Gerrymandering erodes public trust, silences voters, and violates the basic foundation of democracy: that every vote should count equally.

I urge the Senate to reject these maps and implement a fair, nonpartisan redistricting process that represents all Texans, not just the interests of those in power.

Respectfully,

Sara Engler
