Message:
Redistricting in Texas has raised significant concerns due to its clear patterns of gerrymandering, manipulating district boundaries to favor one political party while diluting the voting power of communities of color. This is not just a political strategy; it is an erosion of democratic principles. Fair representation is a cornerstone of our electoral system, yet the maps drawn in Texas repeatedly undermine that ideal by creating districts that do not reflect the true demographic or political makeup of the state. When elected officials are able to choose their voters instead of voters choosing their representatives, the legitimacy of our democracy is at risk. Redistricting must be approached with transparency, equity, and a commitment to protecting every citizen’s voice, not preserving political power through calculated, partisan lines.
