Hi, I am writing regarding the current talks/ attempts at regerrymandering the state. We are not due for new congressional maps until 2031, so, technically this will be an illegal attempt at redrawing districts. We as a state have more important things to worry about such as the recent flooding in the Hill country. We should be focusing on disaster relief. Children died. Little kids died, and nothing is being done to rectify the current issue/plan for future disasters. It's so disappointing to see that the Texas government would rather focus on keeping Jasmine Crockett out of office than saving the lives of children and innocents who never deserved to die. I cannot believe how Greg Abbott continually rolls over and shows his belly to Trump. I doubt my comment will do much to change anything and you assholes will probably do what you want regardless of what your constituents want. We the people do not want new districts and do not want republicans in charge any more. Y'all are just scared Texas may end up being a blue state unless you can illegally rig it in your favor.
