Message:

This redistricting effort is a craven power grab and is an unconstitutional move. It is a demonstration of taxation without representation because you are intentionally seeking to withdraw representation from entire constituencies in the furtherance of a one party dictatorship. Parties with winning policies don't have to cheat to win. This is not fair to Texas, which Republicans have run into the ground while lining their own pockets and leaving others to drown or freeze to death. Shame on you for considering it because you are afraid of displeasing the president when it is your job to represent your state, not to bow to a king, which is why the United States was formed in the first place.
