Message:

I am against redistricting. This is abnormal, as redistricting usually follows the census, which is done every 10 years. This is an obvious play at gerrymandering which goes against the Voters Act and targets majority minority districts.

Additionally, the in-person commenting session was extremely poorly organized. Hundreds of people were left outside the room. They ran out of the blue papers we needed to fill out in 15 minutes. The poor two people who were manning the table were clearly overwhelmed. Please switch to an online system at the very least and larger venue when expecting such a large volume of attendees. Also, even though I filled out a blue paper, there is no PA or notification system to indicate when I can speak. Otherwise, it feels like this poor planning was a move to systematically prevent people from giving public comment, which is restricting our right to democracy.
