Message:

I am a 9th-generation Texan whose ancestors ranched cattle and sheep on this land long before many of today's political boundaries existed. My family has helped build this state, from its rural heartlands to its urban centers, and I am deeply opposed to the Republican-led redistricting effort currently underway. These gerrymandering tactics are not only unethical, they are an affront to the democratic foundation of our state and nation.

Every Texan deserves equal representation, not lines drawn to manipulate outcomes and silence entire communities. The purpose of redistricting should be to reflect population changes and ensure fair representation, not to entrench power or rig elections in favor of one party.

This is not about partisanship, it's about principle. Texans of every background, rural and urban, conservative and progressive, should be alarmed at attempts to redraw districts behind closed doors for political gain. If our representatives cannot win elections fairly, they do not deserve to hold office. Manipulating the map to stay in power undermines the will of the people and the very idea of public service.

We the people grant power to our elected officials, not the other way around. And if they choose to proceed with this gerrymandering scheme, they should be prepared for widespread public opposition. Texans know when we're being cheated, and we won't stand for it.
