Redistricting Texas before midterms should not be considered. Constituents should be heard. As a reminder, the U.S. is a republic. Legislatures primary goal should be serving the people and the people should be able to entrust this role to you all. However, it seems that Texas legislators don't mind being used as an engine to consolidate power into the hands of a few. It's not okay and as time goes by it seems like the GOP has shown its teeth for what it really is, a party of corruption, a party of regression, of classism and a party of voter suppression. Not only should this redistricting not be considered I would go a step further to request the amendment of laws regarding gerrymandering for the entire United States. Gerrymandering has only been done on partisan lines and the people are tired of it. If you you fear losing your seat than your focus should be on how you failed your constituents not how you can cheat them! This is starting to feel like a toxic relationship we can't get out of. Remember your job is to do the will of the people not the will of trump or the old guard of the gop.
