I'm sure no one with power over this decision will read this, much less care, but I still have to throw in my two cents. I've lived in Texas all my life, and can't imagine ever leaving. I belong here, for better or for worse. I care about the land I was born on and the people I was born among, a trait that I don't seem to have in common with my so-called representatives. If you did care, like I do, you wouldn't even be considering this redistricting. I know that you all know what gerrymandering is, so I won't bother to explain it. Just be aware that I am against it, as are many of your constituents, the people you claim to support as you smother our votes and our voices. You want us uneducated, uninformed, and cornered. Why is that, I wonder? So that you can do whatever you wish to our state and our wellbeing without pushback, certainly. But perhaps also because the little shred of humanity left inside you can't stand to hear our pain or see our glares. Hard to say for sure. If so, I am here to drag that quivering fragment of heart into the blinding light. We are here, we are angry, and it is your fault. Time and time again you choose yourselves and your wealth over your people. You send thoughts and prayers and swear on the Bible, but we all know you worship Mammon, not God. You are failures to your people and your country. Of course, you can prove me wrong. In fact, I would love it if you did. Stop the redistricting and show us all that you do care, at least a bit, about your state and the people in it. I hope you make the right decision.
