Message:

Redistricting is not an item of concern on the current Texas legislative docket. This partisan issue is being imposed at a time when Texans want their legislators to address real problems instead, such as the deadly business of inadequate disaster warning/response. It is manifestly unfair that redistricting hearings are being held even before any new maps or a detailed rationale for this process have been made available for Texans to review. But most importantly, redistricting would be an assault on Texans' voting rights, because it is being done solely as a partisan process - this makes it gerrymandering, which is illegal according to the Voting Rights Act. Minority Texans are already underrepresented in Congress due to the way districts have been gerrymandered - this is a form of fraud. I am completely against any partisan redistricting effort. Please do not continue with this process.
