Message:

Dear Members of the Texas Legislature;

I am writing to express my dismay at and strong opposition to the possibility of enacting a redistricting of Texas' electoral maps a mere 4 years after the last census. A redistricting of the electoral congressional districts was already enacted using information from the last census. That exercise, as partisan as anyone can choose to consider it, was legitimate because necessary to reflect the results of the census. But, to implement a redistricting now, without any new official information, is purely an exercise in disenfranchisement of the electorate. There is no reason, no new fact, no development that justifies redistricting now if not to tilt the electoral balance towards the party currently in power. Please, explain to me, and to your constituents who expect you to act not only legally but also honorably, how this exercise would improve the lives and the representation in the US Congress, of ALL Texans, and not just Texas Republicans.

Cesare Monti
