Message:

I am a proud Texas, Christian, mother, and ministry worker. I share these details because I think it is important to recognize that each individual brings something to the room, to the table, and to the voting booth.

The purpose of redistricting at census times is to ensure adequate representation. Our representatives were chosen based on 2020's census and it was sworn to be based on the work of not race but political affiliation.

I cannot help but notice that, while I have seen suggested maps, no one in the public has viewed the expected map. We know sound bites about a person wanting more seats in their political favor, but as constituents we are held in the dark, awaiting a feeling of chaos.

All this while we mourn the other tasks this special session should be addressing. We lost over 130 lives. Our state is grieving as we piece together with holes in families, knowing we can and should do better. This session should be addressing flood plains, flash flood protocols, ensuring safety of human lives for the future.

Instead, a map, that has not been released, for the sole purpose of recalibrating and gaming the political system is our focus. And based on all the voices, this state, the people, stand in opposition to misaligning power.

I ask you, as someone with children, who go to camp, who lives near bodies of water, who enjoys the beauty Texas offers and the common dignity of honesty, address what the true need is and table this work until 2030.
