Message:

Gerrymandering shrinks our voices, wastes our votes, and locks us out of decisions that shape our kids' schools, our roads, our health care, and our jobs. When incumbents are virtually guaranteed re-election, they lose incentives to tackle pressing issues: infrastructure, education, health care, disaster relief. Further, maps drawn with discriminatory intent violate the Constitution and Voting Rights Act, yet Texas GOP led gov continues producing maps that dilute minority influence. Partisan redistricting won't give voters more power; it will weaken accountability, limit political competition, fragment communities, and reduce the state's capacity to respond to real needs. If Texas is to solve problems—from education to healthcare, from infrastructure to disaster management—its maps must reflect its evolving population, not fossilize political advantage.
