Message:

Please don't gerrymander our districts. I am a proud Texas and a US Army veteran. Gerrymandering is not a good way to gain republican representation. Texas should respect the will of the voters and not try to engineer districts for specific outcomes. It is known that doing so has been a contributor to the polarization of politics which NO ONE appreciates and doesn't accurately reflect the fair compromise most Texans want to see. Additionally if Texas starts gerrymandering for a specific outcome it may set a precedent that is difficult to undue and other states may use the same strategy to polarize their districts. This is not in the benefit of Texans or Americans.
