Message:

I strongly oppose the redistricting of Texas congressional districts. This process has resulted in maps that do not reflect the demographic reality of our state, and instead serve to entrench republican power at the expense of fair representation. Texas is a diverse and rapidly growing state, with significant increases in Latino, Black, and Asian populations. Yet these communities have seen their political influence diminished through gerrymandered districts that split or pack their voting power.

This redistricting effort undermines the foundational principles of representative democracy. It ignores the Voting Rights Act's mandate to protect minority voters. Voters should choose their representatives—not the other way around.

I urge Congress to scrutinize this redistricting process and take steps to protect fair and equal representation for all Texans. Democracy only works when every vote counts equally.
