Message:

I strongly oppose the proposed effort to redraw Texas' congressional districts outside of the standard post-census timeline. Redistricting is meant to reflect population changes, not serve political goals. Revisiting maps just four years after the last revision—without meaningful demographic shifts—undermines public trust and transparency in our democratic process.

The stated intent to alter the composition of our Congressional delegation to favor one political party not only violates the principle of fair representation but weaponizes the redistricting process against Texas voters. Gerrymandering in this way dilutes community voices, disregards district continuity, and compromises our ability to hold elected officials accountable.

This effort is fundamentally unfair and undemocratic. I urge the Legislature to reject any map that prioritizes partisan advantage over public interest.
