Message:

I am a senior white female constituent who typically votes Republican, but I care more about what's right than I do about my political affiliation. I am very concerned about the redistricting being considered. There is NO question that this is an unabashed attempt to skew more districts Republican. President Trump has gone on record trying to get Texas to commit to a particular number of "flips". Given that Texas voters are not required to register with one party or the other, how about you just divide equitably by population and accept ALL the votes as the will of the people. I find it highly suspicious that any other attempt to determine who might vote how would have a whiff of racial profiling - and no one can legitimately deny this. Also, fair warning, you might be surprised how many people are feeling "unmoored" from the party with whom they have typically identified. You might find yourselves surprised by the outcome of your attempt at manipulation.

As always, thank you for your willingness to serve the people of Texas. Please take seriously your responsibility for serving ALL the people of Texas.

Thank you,
Tamra Deardurff
