Message:

I acknowledge that the Texas legislature has been gerrymandered and terrorized so much that we non-donating constituents are lucky to be considered as an afterthought. I used to be a Republican, but I still believe in fair play, rule of the majority, and separation of church and state, so no longer agree with the party's position, and know they pose a danger to our country. So I have mixed feelings about redistricting, as it will make blindingly clear what has been obvious to intelligent observers for years: Republicans cannot win unless they cheat and rig the game. My fellow Texans who have not seen how fascist our state government has become are starting to wake up, and those who still believe in America will see this is a step too far.
