Message:

I strongly oppose the redistricting plans currently being pursued in Texas. What is happening is not representative democracy — it is blatant gerrymandering. If the process were fair and just, there would be no need to manipulate district lines in ways that clearly aim to dilute the power of certain voters and communities.

This is not about reflecting population changes — it's about protecting political power at the expense of the people's voice. Redistricting should be about fairness, transparency, and equal representation — not drawing lines to silence opposition.

I urge this committee to reject these maps and return to the principles of representative government. The people of Texas deserve districts that reflect communities, not partisan advantage.
