Senator César J. Blanco Passes Senate Resolution Honoring Former El Paso Hispanic Chamber of Commerce CEO, Cindy Ramos-Davidson

Austin, Texas – Today, Senator César J. Blanco honored Cindy Ramos-Davidson, longtime CEO of the El Paso Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, with an official resolution on the Texas Senate floor recognizing her decades of service, advocacy, and leadership in support of small and minority-owned businesses across Texas.

The tribute, delivered in the Senate Chamber of the Texas Capitol, celebrated Ramos-Davidson's life and legacy as a barrier-breaking business leader and community advocate. A video clip of the Senate resolution can be found here.

"For 27 years, Cindy Ramos-Davidson poured her heart into the El Paso Hispanic Chamber of Commerce," said Senator Blanco. "She fought for local Hispanic entrepreneurs, helped neighborhood businesses get off the ground, and created opportunities for working families across our community. Her impact goes far beyond the dollars and job numbers. Her legacy lives on in the small business owners she believed in, the families she supported, and the Borderplex region she's always called home."

Under her leadership, the El Paso Hispanic Chamber supported over 20,000 business startups and helped generate or maintain more than 30,000 jobs in the Borderplex region. Cindy's impact also reached national and federal levels, with service on the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas El Paso Branch and recognition from business leaders, governors, and presidents across the country.

Senator Blanco also added, "Cindy's voice and love for her community have shaped lives far beyond El Paso. She is a bold spirit, a mentor, a mother, and a fierce champion who continues to inspire us all."
